U. S. Scientists Spot Sputnik's Third Rocket

Team in Connecticut Says Satellite's Carrier Like 'Star'

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A moonwatch team here spotted the Russian satellite Sputnik's third stage rocket today in the first such sighting in the United States.

Two men atop a New Haven State Teachers College building saw the rocket at 5:23 a.m. as it moved in the sky some 650 miles behind Sputnik itself.

The rocket, larger than Sputnik, was used to give the satellite a final push that sent it spinning around the earth. Observers consider both it and Sputnik as earth satellites. Sputnik still hasn't been seen in this country.

"It looked like a star moving across the heavens," said James Plato, a southern New England Telephone Co. equipment engineer who has been interested in astronomy for 20 years.

The historic sighting occurred at 5:23 a.m.

"It could not have been seen with the naked eye, but appeared to be about as bright as a third magnitude star," Plato said. "It was in our field vision for 30 or 40 seconds. It seemed to be moving slowly."

Plato and other members of the moonwatch team had been trying for the last several nights to spot the elusive Sputnik.

They used a 5.5 power wide field telescope to sight the rocket in the northwest part of the sky at an altitude of approximately 40 degrees from the horizon, or nearly halfway between the horizon and the zenith.

PLATO CAREFULLY refrained from saying he had seen the rocket until his observation was confirmed by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Laboratory at Cambridge, Mass., some hours later.

As Plato saw the rocket in the early morning skies, he pointed it out to Dr. Robert U. Brown, head of the New Haven moonwatch team and professor of science at the college.

There has been difference of opinion among scientists whether the satellite is maintaining its rate of speed and its altitude.

But broadcasts from Moscow said the man-made moon will stay aloft for a long time.

Canada's Dominion Observatory at Ottawa said Wednesday night the Russian moonlet, launched last Friday, had been photographed over Alberta. Earlier, it was reported that a photograph had been taken in New Zealand.

Dr. Fred Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said no new information had been received to define more closely the satellite's orbit.

The signals emitted by the sphere were reported by listening posts in various places to have changed from the original beep-beep sound.

The U. S. Naval Research Laboratory here said it was receiving a hum interspersed with an occasional beep. Radio operators in Mazatlan, Mexico, told of hearing a signal that sounded like "psst, psst, psst."

A spokesman at the Naval Research Laboratory said the difference in signals might be explained by a variation in receiving equipment or perhaps the location of the sets in relation to the path of the satellite.

Two Moscow radio broadcasts, both for home listeners, gave conflicting views on the moonlet's speed. One said it was speeding up. The other said it was slowing down. There was no attempt to explain this conflict.

What Is Sputnik's Scientific Value?

NEW YORK (AP)—What is the true scientific value of a man-made, man-controlled earth satellite?

Sputnik spins merrily on today, its stuttering beeps apparently transmitting scientific data to its earthbound makers. But what information is Sputnik transmitting?

The Soviets have said it is counting meteor hits and collecting data on the South Magnetic Pole. One Russian scientist has hinted it also is measuring temperatures in space.

That's only part of what earth satellites, Russian and American, are expected to do this International Geophysical Year.

The 6 to 10 planned by the United States will study meteors, magnetism, temperature as well as cosmic and sun rays, air density, space pressure, even the shape and composition of the earth.

THESE THINGS have been studied before but never outside the atmosphere, the dense layer of air that envelops the earth and obscures the secrets of space.

Data gathered by the prying satellites probably will not have immediate practical value. But it will provide a foundation on which future practical results may be built.

A half century ago, Albert Einstein formulated a basic theory that matter can be converted into energy. It was 40 years before practical atomic energy grew up on that platform.

Already, scientists can guess at some of the practical results which may evolve if the satellite reports can answer questions like these:

What effect do temperatures in the ionosphere (the electronic curtain that hangs over the earth) have upon wind velocities on the surface of the earth?

What does this mean for weather forecasters?

What is the connection between sunspots, those vast, turbulent storms on the face of the sun, and the auroras that frequently raise hob with earthly radio communication?

What does this hold for the future of radio?

WHAT IS the source of cosmic rays, powerful and penetrating electromagnetic radiations which create energy as they pass through the atmosphere?

Can they be harnessed to serve mankind?

The satellites, of course, are man's first tentative steps toward space travel.

The artificial moons reach a balance at 18,000 miles an hour between the possessive pull of the earth's gravity and centrifugal force tending to hurl them into outer space.

A relatively not-much-faster push would allow them to break gravity's hold and possibly reach the moon, a target the Russians say they hope to hit within the next decade.

Ike Apologizes For Snub of African Leader

Ghana Minister Guest For Breakfast in White House Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The finance minister of the Negro republic of Ghana had breakfast with President Eisenhower today and received a personal apology from the chief executive for a Delaware restaurant's refusal to serve him because of his color.

It "makes up for what happened," the minister, K. E. Gbedemah, said as he left the White House. He added that the President was "a little worried" over the snub in Dover, Del., last Monday evening.

Gbedemah quoted Eisenhower as saying there are "little things like that all over the place and you don't know where they're going to blow up or when."

Vice President Nixon also was a guest at the one-hour breakfast session. One reason was that Nixon was entertained at lunch at Gbedemah's home in Ghana last March on the occasion of the celebration of the former British Gold Coast colony's independence.

The minister has been in this country since Sept. 20 attending World Bank conferences.

FOLLOWING breakfast, Eisenhower showed Gbedemah the lower floors of the executive mansion. He then walked to the front porch to pose with his guest.

Gbedemah said the President asked how the Dover incident happened and he told him he was not allowed to drink orange juice in the restaurant. The drink was delivered wrapped, for consumption outside.

Gbedemah laughed when reporters asked if he had been served orange juice at the White House. He said that was not on the menu today and it might have been left off on purpose.

At Accra, Ghana, the Foreign Ministry announced today it has accepted a U.S. government apology for the incident.

The Dover restaurant is operated by Howard Cook under a Howard Johnson franchise.

U. S. State Department officials Wednesday apologized formally to the local Embassy of the West African nation.

Department officials also telephoned Howard Johnson headquarters in Quincy, Mass., expressing the hope that such occurrences would not happen again.

A Howard Johnson spokesman said the company believes strongly in serving anyone. He added that the company "employs many fine colored people. We have for 25 years. We don't inquire about creed or color."

If Cook, holder of the restaurant's franchise in Dover, has any comment, it was not reported.

63 Slot Machines Sold For only $10 to G-Man

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sixty-three confiscated slot machines worth an estimated $60,000 brought the government a tiny jackpot of $10 when they were auctioned in the basement of the Federal Building here by an Internal Revenue agent, who himself made the only bid at one of the few permitted to buy such merchandise. The machines will be smashed and sold for junk.

Only one of the 86 women standing inspection "met specifications perfectly."

Most of the faults were minor. Some "did not fill their WAC uniforms properly."

"Some of the young ladies who are not too gifted in some ways were told they could make improvements. For a few who were beginning to bulge a bit, I suggested girdles. For a few others I suggested padding for the shoulder and elsewhere."

"When a WAC isn't well endowed," the well-formed lieutenant explained, "the uniform has a tendency to dip in front of the shoulders. Padding at the shoulders will take the dip out. So will falsies."

Lt. Wolcott admitted that neither falsies nor girdles are government issue. The girls must buy their own.

"For this reason I couldn't order them to improve their appearance, and there will be no disciplinary action against any

No U.S.-Soviet Agreement Seen Soon on Space Control

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top U. S. officials see no present possibility of practical agreements between Russia and the West on major world issues such as international control of space satellites.

They feel that Soviet Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev is not seriously interested in reaching any such agreement at this time.

This estimate of Khrushchev's attitude in foreign affairs is based primarily on an assessment of Secretary of State Dulles' talk here last Saturday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

It also is described as taking into account the positive purposes of Khrushchev's apparently well-planned diplomatic offensive in connection with the launching of the earth satellite.

In the American view he is seeking simultaneously to impress the world with Russia's scientific progress and military power, and to promote the familiar propaganda line that the Soviet Union is actively seeking peaceful settlement with its power rival, the United States.

THE DULLES-Gromyko conversation impressed Dulles and other top officials chiefly by demonstrating what they now term the "inflexibility" of Soviet policy on the disputed problems talked about. These were mainly the Middle East, disarmament and the European situation.

Gromyko, according to authoritative information, gave no intimation of any Kremlin willingness to change position on any of these subjects.

President Eisenhower made clear at a news conference Wednesday that the United States has no intention of joining with Russia in any "attempt to dictate to the world."

Dulles, departing for a long weekend at Duck Island, his Lake Ontario retreat, reported at the airport that there would be no bilateral talks with Russia — talks from which America's allies would be excluded.

The United States has carefully avoided any direct contacts with Russia which might upset this country's relations with Allied countries.

Ex-U.S. Chief Justice In Germany Is Dead

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—William L. Clark, former chief justice of U. S. courts in Germany, died Wednesday of a heart attack in the central Ceylonese resort of Nuwara Eliya.

Clark rocketed into prominence in 1953 when he was told he would not be reappointed to the German court position and then refused to go home. He was suspended and his passport picked up.

Recently, the jurist had been on a tour of the Far East.

Korean Student Loses Cincy Bid

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Korean student at the University of Cincinnati has lost his bid to have the "top and most powerful organization in the city" (city council) help him get a taxi driver's license.

Reason: Jae-Kee Kim is already working parttime for the city on UC's co-op program.

The Korean had asked council to waive a law which requires would-be chauffeurs to be U. S. citizens.

He said he wanted a job to help foot his bills at UC and said: "I shall be on the tip of expectation to hear from you."

But Council learned Wednesday that because of the student's co-op job, he cannot get another job without permission first from the university and then from the federal government.

3 U.S. Fliers, Briton Die as Jet Explodes

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—A burning B47 Stratofort bomber exploded Wednesday, killing three U. S. fliers and a Royal Air Force officer.

Col. Michael N. W. McCoy, 52, of Pomona, Calif., dean of B47 combat wing commanders, was believed to have been piloting the six-engine aircraft.

He died with others in the plane, Group Capt. John Woodroffe of the RAF, Lt. Col. Charles Joyce, 38, of Winchester, Mass., and Maj. Vernon D. Stiff, 39, of Dayton.

Little Rock School Scene Remains Quiet

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Conditions at Little Rock's Central High School edged back toward normal today although federal troops remained to enforce integration.

There was no sign of a break in the state-federal deadlock which keeps them on duty.

In advance of the opening of classes today, school authorities said 46 out of 74 students who have been under suspension have been reinstated or will be shortly.

Most of the suspensions were for three days; others were for indefinite terms. Many of those barred from classes had taken part in a walkout or in other disturbances.

In addition, attendance at Central High Wednesday totaled 1,773, with 190 absent. The absentees included those under suspension.

School officials have said normal absenteeism runs about 5 per cent which would amount to around 100 pupils out of Central High's enrollment of almost 2,000.

At the peak of the tension growing out of racial integration ordered at the school by the federal courts, 750 were absent.

Lady Looie Tells WACs in Yokohama To Use Falsies, Girdles if Necessary

YOKOHAMA, Japan (AP)—The WAC detachment in Yokohama has been told to shape up by Saturday, with an assist from falsies and girdles if necessary.

The word came from the outfit's new and shapely young commander. Some of the girls think Lt. Jeanne Wolcott of Kent, Ohio, went too far. One subordinate said she might write her congressman.

"I didn't exactly order them," the pretty lieutenant said today. "I just told them, and next Saturday I'll see what's been done."

The advice, a "girl-to-girl talk," came after Lt. Wolcott's first inspection Saturday of her 96-woman detachment. The female outfit is on duty at the Army Transportation Terminal and Regional Camp in Yokohama.

This is what the lady looie says she found when she inspected:

Only one of the 86 women standing inspection "met specifications perfectly."

Tigers Play For 'Parents'

Dayton Kiser Foe On CHS Gridiron

Parents Night will be one of the main attractions during the Circleville-Dayton Kiser football game Friday night on the local gridiron. Parents and other fans will be giving plenty of encouragement in an effort to help bring the Tigers their first win of the season. The Dayton team, appearing for the first time, owns a record of two wins and one loss. Circleville will go into the contest without the services of Tom Greeno, John Wright, and Gerald Allison. It was reported in yesterday's Herald that Greeno might be available for service Friday night. However, CHS coaches today said the backfielder's injured leg has not responded to treatment, meaning that he will be out of uniform indefinitely.

Wright moved up to varsity tackle last week, will be out for the rest of the season with a bad back. The senior lineman was sidelined with the bad back last year and it has given him trouble most of this season. Allison, a varsity end, was declared ineligible this week. The Tigers will miss the services of the three varsitymen, but the local gridders are determined to make an extra bid for victory for the sidelined players. Coaches Tom Bennett and Dick Boyd, along with the capable help of assistants Dick Fisher, John Adler, John Current and Jack Weikert, have been putting the home forces through some lengthy workouts this week in preparation for the Kiser invasion.

Observer Meet Scheduled Here

A civil defense ground observer corps meeting will be held in the local common pleas court room tonight at 7 p. m. According to Bernard Taft, local civil defense director, Navy personnel from Columbus will be on hand to show films and discuss the formation of an observer unit here.

With Russia's release of an earth satellite, Taft said interest in civil defense appears on the upswing. The meeting here, however, was scheduled well before the Russians released their satellite. Taft said his group particularly is interested in forming an observer unit here which will include 16 and 17 year-olds. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

By a stroke of luck Deputy Sheriff Charles Felkey apprehended a juvenile motorist driving a stolen car yesterday on Route 56 near Kingston.

The juvenile, from Upper Arlington, was picked up by Deputy Felkey who was serving papers in that area. The deputy learned of the stolen car only a few minutes before when State Highway Patrolman James Cooper stopped Felkey's cruiser to inform him of the theft.

While the two lawmen were talking the stolen car passed by traveling north. Felkey, headed in the same direction, gave chase, apprehending the driver after tailing him for about a mile.

Questioning by Felkey and Patrolman Cooper revealed that the juvenile had taken the car from Gerhard, Miller, Lancaster.

ACCORDING to Felkey the juvenile said he walked out of school yesterday morning, hitch-hiked to Lancaster, spotted the car with the keys in it and drove off.

The youth was released to the Lancaster Police Department yesterday evening.

CHS Reserve Unit Defeated By Lancaster Juniors, 18-6

Two touchdown runs and a scoring pass gave Lancaster's reserve Golden Gales an 18-6 victory over Circleville's Kitten footballers yesterday at Lancaster.

Although the Kittens threatened several times they were able to hit paydirt only once. The lone tally came in the fourth quarter after the locals recovered a fumbled Lancaster punt attempt.

The CHS touchdown came on a sneak by quarterback Dave Smith who lugged the pigskin across from one yard out.

Lancaster scored once in each of the first three quarters but failed to come close in the final stanza which was dominated by the Kittens.

CIRCLEVILLE took the opening kickoff and moved to the Lancaster 25 before losing the ball on downs. The drive was sparked by a 15-yard pass from Smith to end Jake Bailey and some hardrunning by halfback Gary Vandemark.

Lancaster took over and promptly started to march. Most of the yardage was registered on a long pass with the host team scoring two plays later from about two yards out.

After exchanging the ball several times Lancaster scored again in the second quarter on a pass play. The try for extra point was no good and the Gales led, 12-0.

The winners' final tally came in the third period when a Gale halfback broke off tackle and romped into the end zone. Kitten lineman Herschel Martin made a leaping dive for the runner near the flag but couldn't stop him from crossing the goal line.

The Kittens initiated a drive of their own when quarterback Larry Steinhauser pitched an aerial to Bailey which carried about 35 yards deep into enemy territory. The thrust faltered on the Gale 10 but Lancaster fumbled on the punt attempt and Circleville recovered.

Another break came with about four minutes remaining when Kitten Tackle Rupert Rudd broke through to block a Gale punt on the enemy 25. However, the Kittens were unable to fashion a scoring punch, the Gales holding until the clock ran out.

COACHES John Adler and John Current were disappointed with the loss, saying the Kittens did not play the brand of ball which prevailed in their last three victories.

The Kittens showed plenty of offensive power but failed several times to go all the way. The forward wall performed well but suffered several costly lapses.

The quarterbacking of Smith, the pass catching of Bailey, some hardrunning by Vandemark and Arch Ward, plus the line play of Harry Strawser, Rudd and Martin indicated that the Kittens will remain tough competitors for the rest of the season.

Reds Use Trade Against U. S.

A NATURALIZED American emigrant from Russia received considerable attention from the House un-American Activities Committee on the subject of relaxed trade restrictions with the Soviet Union and her satellites. Joseph A. Marcus, president of the Institute of Foreign Trade in New York, cautioned the committee that there are no American trade materials which Russia cannot turn to her economic or military advantage.

Marcus bases his convictions upon many years of experience in the foreign trade field. Starting in 1924, he undertook many voyages between the United States and the Soviet Union as a representative of American corporations seeking expanded trade in that country. He learned from first-hand experience the back door methods Russia uses in trade promotions.

Reporting on his encounters with Russian trade methods, Marcus told the House committee:

"From the very beginning the Soviet Union started to use trade as a weapon to harm their non-communist adversaries. They will buy and sell to people where they can get the greatest advantage. This advantage is not in money, but in infiltration, subversion, and the stealing of American know-how.

"They will sell you manganese, for example, which is a very vital item in the United States steel industry, provided you will sell them certain machinery and equipment. Selling to them machinery and equipment is not in the same sense as we sell machinery and equipment to any other country in the world.

"They want to buy one machine of each type that they are looking for, the latest American invention, and have you give them blueprints and the shop drawings, so they can take that model, pick it to pieces, and then copy it for two purposes:

"1. To manufacture those items for their own use and advance technology.

"2. To export those machines whose technology they have stolen, and patent rights been violated, to our competitors, and compete in that manner with the American manufacturers, to hurt the American economy."

There is nothing surprising about this report. In not one instance in which this country has had dealings with Russia—whether in trade, diplomacy, or military action—has the United States emerged with an advantage. But history seems to have little meaning to those determined to create a trade flow with the Kremlin.

Tastes Shifting to Beauty

There seems to be a fashion these days of confessions in newsprint in which the aging or the shop-worn disclose to the public their own wickedness which is only debasing and sometimes the wickedness of their fathers and their mothers which is sinful. Some of it must be done for the money in it, but were such self-abasing confessions not fashionable, there would be no money in it.

In the matter of George Raft, the character of his confession now concluding in "The Saturday Evening Post" and which presumably will be a book and a motion picture, indicates to me, as an old hand at human wickedness, that Raft has submitted to direct and indirect blackmail, that he has grown weary of it and now puts everything in black and white, even much that the blackmailers could not know, so that there will be nothing more to blackmail him about.

Raft differs from Diana Barrymore in the environmental accidents of his childhood. The Barrymores were the aristocrats of the theater who had moved over from what was in Maurice Barrymore's time, a forbidden profession for the gentility to John's time when he married into high society and social punctiliousness.

I knew John somewhat and knew him as a cynic who really believed that all the world's a stage and those who trod its boards were puffed up idiots who took themselves too seriously.

Most of our acquaintance took place in Luchow's Restaurant where he liked to go for undiluted beer and where I liked to go for fattening foods. Barrymore was with the same person most of the time.

Not being nosy about such matters, I do not know whether she was a wed wife or a devoted companion. Whichever it was, he was without doubt sarcastic about the companionship of December and April and I found such conversation brilliant despite its alcoholic content.

I do not find his daughter's confessions equally brilliant because about them there is neither gaiety nor tragedy, only narrative, the desire to tell all, like that French girl who had the motorcar accident because she was in a rush to live the whole of her life in three or four years between puberty and maturity which in this country is called the teen-age.

Self-exposure is a normal characteristic of a degenerate era. In wholesome periods, human beings have pride. They have what the Chinese, when they were civilized, called "face." It is in the growing-up periods that the proprieties are pursued.

Think of the greatness of England in the times of Queen Victoria and the smallness of Great Britain in the era when a commission advocates that homosexuality be legalized and the pound sterling goes down to next to nothing. Perhaps that is why Soviet Russia is puritanical and discourages the idea of bathing beauties. They do not need a Jayne Mansfield to mark an age.

when they can beat us in launching a moon.

At any rate, it is something to think about, particularly when one is told to meet the times and to understand the times and that times change. Of course, time never changes; it is eternal. What does change is taste. For instance, it is not difficult to realize how tastes have changed when Princeton University, the center since colonial days of American Presbyterianism, finds it academic freedom to open its doors to Alger Hiss but rejects the God-fearing, God-loving criticisms of Father Hugh Halton.

Lebanon Prison Construction To Start Oct. 16

COLUMBUS, Ohio (U)—Work will begin Oct. 16 on the new 12 million dollar Southern Ohio Reformatory near Lebanon in Warren County. Gov. C. William O'Neill, who will take part in ground-breaking ceremonies before actual work begins, said the state wants to speed construction of the institution because of overcrowded prison conditions.

The reformatory will house 1,500 inmates and is scheduled to be finished in 1960. However, from 700 to 800 inmates will start using the institution in 1959, when enough of the institution is finished to keep them under lock and key.

The first construction phase will cost $3,175,786. Bids for the second phase will be received in November.

Don't Get Ulcers--Blow Top

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

It's a good idea to let off some steam every time you feel the need. It might keep you from developing an ulcer.

Of course, exploding at the wrong moment to the wrong person also might very well lead you to the unemployment line or the divorce court. But by wisely choosing the proper person to tell your troubles to, you generally can avert any serious consequences.

Emotional stress such as resentment makes the juices secreted by your stomach stronger. This can, and often does, lead to formation of ulcers. Therefore, a simple way to prevent this from happening is to get rid of any pent-up anger.

Say the boss hawks you out. Okay, you don't want to talk back to him, but you've got to sound off to somebody. Why not try your spouse?

Let her know what goes on in the office or plant, especially when something goes wrong. Most wives would be willing to share their husbands' problems if they were only given the chance.

If this still doesn't ease your tension, you can take it out—secretly—on the boss himself.

Get a picture of the boss or even the building where you work. Then go down to the basement or to your recreation room, hang the picture on the wall and hurl darts at it.

A couple of bullseyes and your anger probably will subside.

If this isn't practical, try whacking a golf ball or baseball, anything (but not your wife) that will help you "get it out of your system."

The perfect solution is to sound off when the disturbing factor occurs.

Some of you more fortunate employees or employers can get away with it. But for the average

Everbody Scared but Elsa

NEW YORK (U)—"Everybody is frightened but me," said Miss Elsa Maxwell, looking like a Roman empress as she lay, propped up by a pillow, in her bed in the Waldorf Towers.

"If I knew I were to die tomorrow, I'd want my epitaph to be: 'I Die Happy!' For I was born gay, and my life has been glorious, transcendently magical, full of glamor—and I mean real glamor."

This adventurous lady was born in a Keokuk, Iowa, opera house during a performance of "Mignon," and grew up to throw 2,000 society parties around the world.

At 74 Elsa has become one of the big surprise hits of the winter celebrity season. Her breezy wit has made her a Tuesday night star on "Tonight," the NBC TV show. Her book on how to throw a party is condensed in the current issue of McCall's. Las Vegas has called her for a two-week engagement—"not to perform, just to look at me."

While taking her afternoon bed rest, the volatile buddy of the Duchess of Windsor gave forth as follows:

"I'm young and fresh at 74. I roar with laughter. It's because I'm alive. It shows that to be yourself is all that matters—to say what you think."

"Most people are afraid, not only of themselves but of everything else. Fear is the thing that destroys everybody."

"That is why there are so few young people in America today. They're automatons racing toward a goal they don't know. They try to beat the clock, beat the other fellow—and they die young, before they have lived."

"I am not merely a party thrower. . . I've led at least nine lives and known most of the great people of my time. But there is no question I do give the best parties in the world."

"Why? Because I can say no to bores. I think to be boring is to be criminal."

"If I were cast away on a desert island, the five people I'd like most to have with me would be Arthur Rubinstein and Maria Callas (I can't live without music), Noel Coward (his conversation is divine), Jack Paar (he's so amusing), and a great scientist. Why? To figure out a way to get me off the darned island.

"The five people I'd hate most to be cast up on a desert island with are Elvis Presley, King Farouk, Arthur Godfrey, Liberace, and Jimmy Hoffa, that Teamster official. The first four bore me. I think Godfrey is the greatest bore that ever lived. And as for Hoffa, what good would a truckdriver be on a desert island?"

"What is my philosophy? I believe the way to be happy is to give happiness. Do the best you can for all you can as long as you have the strength, endurance and imagination to do it. Also remember always to be polite to those who are less lucky in life than you are. And don't let possessions possess you. The only thing I own in this world is this ring on my finger."

Sept. 23 Recalled as Day Of Disgrace in Arkansas

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of five articles outlining the conditions in strife-torn Little Rock, Ark., by a Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter who has been a close observer of the scene.

By RELMAN MOFIN
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—On the morning of Sept. 23, a Monday, 99 per cent of the people of Little Rock were nowhere near Central High School.

That was the day when a relatively few people, about 400 in all, beat up Negroes and newspapermen, fought with police, raged in the streets, and screamed to the children inside the high school, "Come out! Don't stay in there with the niggers!"

In the space of an hour, these few—

1. Brought shame and disgrace to a community of good people.
2. Fashioned a deadly propaganda weapon for the Communists to use against the United States in Asia and Africa, among the black, yellow and brown races this country wants as friends.
3. Rescued Gov. Orval Faubus, who had predicted violence, from what had appeared to be the role of a false prophet.
4. Figuratively tarred and feathered those people, on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line, who are patiently searching for the answers to the immense problems that sprang from the Supreme Court ruling that segregated schools are unconstitutional.

Only a handful are responsible for this and more. The rest of Little Rock was in its homes and offices and places of business as on any other day. This is not to say that they approve integration. They don't. They overwhelmingly oppose integration and want no part of it. But they also believe in obeying the law. And there is the dilemma. It is not easy to obey a command that rowels your deepest sensibilities, nor readily comply with an order that you feel, in blood and fibre, is wrong.

Today, many people in Little Rock are sick and tired of "the mess," as they call it. They are prepared to accept integration simply as the lesser of two evils. Others shrug and say, "You can't fight the U. S. government. Why try?"

Who are the people who gathered in front of Central High School that morning? There were some hard-nosed haters, looking for Negroes and "Yankee reporters" to slug—provided the odds were right. Some were merely curious, waiting to see what would happen. And some were crusading for kicks.

Finally, there were the women. They were the most frantic of all, the noisiest, the most vulgar. Apparently average housewives suddenly turned into harpies, screeching, crying, tearing their hair. The police kept control inside the barricades. But they did next to nothing about the beatings that took place outside. First, the crowd attacked four Negro newspapermen. Later, they turned on white reporters and photographers. During all this, there were policemen close at hand.

On Tuesday, Sept. 24, the electrifying news came that President Eisenhower had put the National Guardsmen under federal orders, and that units of the 101st Airborne were on the way to the city. Shortly after dark, a convoy of Army trucks rumbled over the main street bridge from the opposite side of the Arkansas River. People stared in utter disbelief.

Nothing like this had been seen in a Southern city since the days of the Reconstruction, 90 years ago.

There was every form of reaction in Little Rock—surprise, dismay, relief, blood-hot indignation. The next day, Wednesday, Sept. 25, the paratroopers' officers quickly and efficiently demonstrated to the smaller crowds again gathered at the high school that they meant business.

The soldiers broke up two groups. One man suffered a scalp wound when he tried to grab a paratrooper's rifle. Another was jabbed in the arm with a bayonet. After that, there was no serious trouble.

Then the campaign began to induce as many parents as possible, by threats or persuasion, to keep their children out of school. It appears to have failed.

Sixty-nine students were sus-

Brothers' Records Bring Different Terms for Theft

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Two brothers who pleaded guilty to robbing a five and dime store of $237 here June 8 came up for sentencing before two different judges Wednesday.

One must go to jail, the other is free on probation. The two are Charles E. Cummings, 40, of Columbus and his brother Clifford, 29, of Zanesville.

Clifford was sentenced to 1-15 years in the Ohio Penitentiary by Common Pleas Judge Earl D. Parker. Charles was freed on two years probation by Common Pleas Judge Robert Draper.

The two have previous convictions for auto theft. Judge Parker said he took Clifford's record into consideration in sentencing him to the penitentiary.

Judge Draper said he similarly considered Charles' record, but noted that Charles had an excellent parole record since his release in 1948.

The Probation Department recommended that both men be sent to prison.

Water Bonds Get OK

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Water Service Co. can issue $3 million in 30-year first mortgage bonds and $1,248,000 in debenture bonds, the Utilities Commission decided today.

ended last weekend. Most had joined in the walkout. Some had attacked two Negro boys. Supt. of Schools Virgil Blossom is prepared to crack down hard, he says. But what of the future? The troops won't stay in Little Rock forever. What then?

Charity Bingo Games Protected by Judge

MIDDLETOWN (AP)—Common Pleas Judge Fred B. Cramer has issued a temporary restraining order against city officials interfering with charity bingo games, pending a hearing Oct. 21. Two fraternal groups Tuesday asked the court to rule on the legality of charity bingo under state gaming laws, and for the restrainer until a ruling is made. The plaintiffs said city officials ordered the games shut down.

rained here Wednesday, pending extradition to the United States. 11-Year-Old's Marriage Studied COLUMBUS (AP)—Can an 11-year-old girl in Ohio be legally married?

The common pleas court in Crawford County says she cannot. The appellate court says she can.

Now the state supreme court is stepping into the picture. The common pleas court convicted Carl and Katherine Gans of causing the delinquency of their adopted 11-year-old daughter by permitting her to marry Stanley Thorn in 1955 at Morgantown, W. Va. The appellate court later ruled the marriage valid.

Wednesday the Ohio Supreme Court agreed to review the appellate court's decision.

Mrs. Nowland Addresses St. Philip's Auxiliary

Uses 'Worship' As Her Topic

The regular monthly meeting of St. Philip's Episcopal Woman's Auxiliary was held Wednesday evening in the Parish Hall with the president, Mrs. Leora Sayre, conducting business.

Mrs. Howard Moore, educational and program chairman, introduced Mrs. Frank Nowland of St. Michael and All Angels Church, Cincinnati, who is the Diocesan chairman of devotions.

Mrs. Nowland used many scripture illustrations to motivate the conviction that worship is important for a happy and successful way of life. She placed emphasis on the fact that courage and patience were vital in meditations or devotions which should incorporate praise, penance, thanksgiving, intercession and petition.

During the business session a discussion of the objectives of the Central Expense and Bishop's Discretionary Fund was held and the decision reached that these assessed and voluntary funds be paid.

Mrs. Frank Davis and Miss Bess Fry reported on the latest kitchen improvement project supported by the Auxiliary—the acquisition of new china, glass, and silver ware. Mrs. Melvin Thompson explained the change in plans for the fall ingathering. This Thanksgiving will be a part of the 10:30 a. m. service Sunday, with Miss Jessie Craven and Mrs. Enid Denham in charge.

Mrs. J. E. Groom, Christian Social Relations Chairman, presented an explanatory prelude for continuous work, fellowship, and study in this category of the total program.

The list of missionary supply needs was reviewed by Miss Fry. Missions assigned for help this year are Church of The Resurrection, Puerto Rico; and Church of The Good Shepherd, Ft. Hall, Idaho.

St. Paul's, Chillicothe will cooperate with St. Philip's, Circleville in the construction and financing of one of 40 needlepoint kneeling cushions for St. Paul's Chapel of the Jane Procter Memorial Diocesan House in Cincinnati.

Members were reminded of the approaching Country Village Bazaar Nov. 19.

An announcement was read from the Columbus Regional Chairman concerning the Annual Regional meeting Oct. 22 in Trinity Church, Newark.

Mrs. Henry Miga and Mrs. George Pickard were hostesses for the concluding period of refreshment and fellowship.

Local DAR Unveils Plaques At Memorial Services

Last Thursday, members of Pickaway Plains Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, relatives and friends assembled to commemorate the memory of Miss Bertha Warner and Miss Edith Haswell.

The Memorial Services, conducted by Miss Marie Hamilton, regent, and Mrs. Paul Johnson, were held at the gravesites in Reber Hill and Forest Cemeteries.

During the brief and simple services the DAR plaque, placed at each grave, was unveiled.

Afterwards many of the women traveled to Adena, the restored home of Governor Worthington in Chillicothe, where they toured the 150 year-old stone residence which hosted many important and famous personages of the nineteenth century.

For several of the group it was a first trip through the historic mansion but even those who had visited previously agreed that the quiet dignity of this early Ohio home and the view down the graceful lawn to the Scioto Valley comprised a stimulating and enjoyable tour.

The highlight of the DAR meeting scheduled for 2:30 p. m. Tuesday will be the talk by Dr. J. T. Nolen of the DuPont Plant whose topic will be "Mylar".

Also, the viburnums constitute an extremely large family of shrubs that add color with their multicolored berries. In conclusion she advised that we do not overlook the fall blooming crocus and that with careful planning we have a garden to be proud of next autumn.

Mrs. Harry Trump, president, conducted the business meeting. Plans were discussed and committees named for the open meeting and flower show to be held in December.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's attitude toward the Soviet satellite could be summed up in two words: "So what?"
Many people — scientists, military men and the rest of us — have reacted somewhat differently. Some are alarmed, others are embarrassed that the Russians got there first, most are fascinated at the very least.
But not the President.
He has asked "himself: What did the Russians really accomplish?"
And he gave his answer at a news conference Wednesday: "Apparently, from what they say, they have put one small ball in the air."
Eisenhower showed less concern about this than he has been seen to show over the progress of one small ball from the fairway to the green.

No sarcasm is intended. The President was plainly aware of the worldwide uproar over the miniature moon. He came prepared with a long statement on the subject—something he rarely does.
But the essence of his words was: What's everybody so excited about? We could have done it ourselves if we had wanted to. And what does it really amount to, after all?
Others may say—and are saying — that the Russians have scored an historic triumph. There is all manner of speculation about what happens next: Do the Russians zoom ahead in missile development? Do they beat us to the moon? One British rocket expert, Arthur C. Clarke, goes so far as to say the United States became a second-class power, when the Russians shot their small ball into space.

Eisenhower has a word for this sort of talk: hysteria.
He said he realized all along that the Russians would get "a great psychological advantage in world politics" if they were first with the satellite. But he said this country was concerned with orderly scientific research, not with propaganda, and "there didn't seem to be a reason for just trying to grow hysterical" about beating the Russians.
Nobody spoke up in favor of hysteria. Hardly anybody ever does. Nobody asked, either, why this country wasn't concerned with "psychological advantage," when it spends millions each year trying to convince the rest of the world that Americans are smarter and nicer than Russians.
Is the President satisfied with U.S. progress in missile development? He said he naturally wishes we were farther along, but is "not dissatisfied" with what's been done to date.
Is the country now going to put more money and effort into missile development? Eisenhower said the scientists have been given all the support they asked for and "that is all I can do." (His new secretary of defense, Neil H. McElroy, said a little later that serious consideration is being given to a missile speedup. McElroy said no action has been taken yet.)
Whether the President is being wisely calm or foolishly complacent is a question that only history can answer, not that plenty of people won't try to guess the answer in the meantime.

$200 Million Seen Coming To Improve U. S. Route 21

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio and West Virginia were reported today to have a good chance of getting close to 200 million dollars in extra federal money for a stretch of new superhighway.
This is the road—an extension of U.S. 21—for which Govs. C. William O'Neill of Ohio and Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia made a special plea in Washington Monday.
U.S. 21 now goes south in Ohio from Cleveland to Canton. O'Neill and Underwood want to continue the road from Canton south past Dover to Marietta, then on to Charleston, W. Va.
That is a distance of about 190 miles.
With the federal contribution on road building running at 90 percent of the cost or conservatively about one million dollars a mile in that area, a federal outlay close to 200 million would be involved.

What would make Ohio and West Virginia success a special plum is the fact that the administration has only 1,000 miles of new highway left in its grant roads program. Roads Bureau Director Bertram Tallamy and Secretary of Commerce Weeks must pick this 1,000 miles from applications around the country totaling 13,000 miles.
O'Neill and Underwood argued to Tallamy that federal aid was needed for U.S. 21 to aid in industrial expansion and for defense.
At the Bureau of Roads, a spokesman said newly tabulated figures show that Ohio's progress on building its share of the new interstate system of roads looks "excellent" so far.
"Ohio has obligated all of its allotted funds for its interstate roads for 1957," the spokesman said. "In all, 31 states have done that."
As of Sept. 30, he said, 19 road projects totaling nearly 65 miles of interstate highways had been started at a total cost of $75,200,365. Of that amount, the federal contribution is $65,249,063.
Total mileage of interstate highways either advertised for bids or actually under construction in Ohio, he said, is in the neighborhood of 116 miles.
That will cost $132,095,311, of which the federal share is $116,321,674.
Total interstate highway distance now planned for Ohio is about 1,353 miles.

New, Continuing Idle Claims Climb

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports increases in both new and continuing claims for the week ended Oct. 5.
New claims in the period increased from 10,727 to 11,072. Continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more rose from 50,901 to 51,636. These figures are estimated, and do not necessarily indicate the total unemployed in the state since many unemployed may have drawn the limit on benefits and may still be out of work.

Warren County Jail Escape Plot Nipped

LEBANON (AP) — Sheriff Richard Satterthwaite says he has nipped an escape plot by six prisoners in county jail. The sheriff put the six in solitary confinement Wednesday and cancelled visiting privileges for all prisoners.
Satterthwaite said he discovered bricks loosened and the casing removed from a barred rear window of the jail.

All Baskets Look Alike to Trashman

FREMONT (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binkley, getting ready for a trip, left a basket containing groceries, clothing and a purse on the sidewalk near their car for a few minutes—just at the time the trash collection crew was going by.
The city ordered replacements for the groceries. The purse and clothing were recovered from the trash collection.

Satellite Cocktail Sends You Beeping

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — A tavern owner here has concocted a satellite cocktail, contending that after one drink you'll take a flying leap at the moon.
"The base is vodka, of course," whispers Donn Willson, the originator, "but the rest of the contents are secret, comrade."
He claimed one patron had two and took off, beeping.

New U.S. Missile Setup Is Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.) is urging that Congress set up "a Manhattan type project" to direct the multi-billion-dollar race with Soviet Russia in the field of missiles and earth satellites.
"We need the same type of coordination and concentration of our best scientists and experts as developed our initial atomic bomb," Mansfield said, adding that "I am told that we have wasted hundreds of millions of dollars through our present programs of separate Army, Navy and Air Force projects for attempted development of long-range missiles."

Senator Urging All-Out Program

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) told a party rally Congress should give the President any funds and authority he needs to put the United States ahead of Russia in the space satellite field.
"If it turns out the Communist menace is all a myth, then we may lose some money," Symington declared. "But if we don't spend the money and the myth is not a myth, we may lose our nation."
Belgium and Holland had a terrific civil war in 1830. Belgium independence was granted that year, and the Kingdom of the Netherlands was dissolved. Belgium and Holland were formerly a political unity.

'Inside Russia' Film Readied

Movie Taken of Soviet Folk at Home, Work

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — American moviegoers will get a chance to see how the Russians really live, thanks to a tough little capitalist who roamed behind the Iron Curtain with cameras and film.
The man is Sid Feder, and he has brought forth a documentary called "This Is Russia" which Universal-International is releasing. A vaudeville actor as a child, Feder has some film theaters and other interests.
Feder's Iron Curtain caper arose while he was in London during the B&B visit. He figured he would test whether the Kremlin leaders were serious in their offers of friendship, so he applied for permission to photograph Russia.
After much red tape, Feder was admitted to Russia.

"They showed me the huge factories, which were impressive but not what I was interested in," he said. "I wanted to see the faces of the people—see them at work and at play, in their homes, at the theaters and on vacation."
"They arranged for me to visit a model apartment—and it was a model! It was all fixed up with a refrigerator, television set and electric toaster. There was no electricity in the building, nothing to plug into."
Though often harassed by the police, Feder managed to get what he wanted. He saw another sight forbidden to most Western visitors—the slave labor camp of Siberia.

With some hairbreadth escapes, he managed to get his film out of Russia. Most of it was in good shape, he reported, although part of it appears to have been exposed to X-rays by the crafty Reds.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The thrift-conscious housewife will find several attractively priced meats to choose from at her favorite supermarket this week.
Tagged by leading food chains as specials for the coming week are chuck roast, leg of veal, fresh or smoked picnic hams, roasting turkeys and chickens for frying or broiling.
Sirloin steak is being offered at sharply reduced prices here and there. Market specialists say the sirloin bargains are a one-time promotional event and that next week prices will be back where they were before. The same holds for bacon and pork. The general trend for pork is higher.

Egg prices are up this week. Hens are moulting now and productivity is off. In most of the larger cities you'll find the retail price of large, grade A whites up 6, 8 or even 10 cents a dozen since last week. Brown and medium-sized eggs are higher, too.
Offsetting the higher cost of breakfast eggs are bargains galore in produce. The fall harvest of values is in full swing right now—there are russet potatoes and yellow sweet corn from the Pacific Northwest, yams from Virginia and the Carolinas, lettuce and greens from California.
Outstanding buys of the week include potatoes, peppers, cauliflower, bunches or topped beets and white turnips.

Hibernation Not Fashion In Boat Clan

Many Craft Go South
Instead of Into Storage These Days

NEW YORK (AP) — Hibernation is less fashionable today among boating fans.

Many boats go south instead of into storage on ice choked shores. Increasing sales of boats and motors in the South have brought the number to almost one third of the nation's total. Even in the northern states the boating season is being extended well beyond the traditional Labor Day close. Outboard motor companies, like the auto makers, have pushed up the showing of new models from January to early fall.

Boat and motor makers credit prosperous times for much of the gain in their sales. There are in the nation now six million boats and some 30 million outboards.

Population growth has been marked in the open weather states of the South and Pacific coast. This, and especially the increased number of persons in the middle brackets, have opened a wide market.

Increased leisure time is a big factor. So is the trend toward making the outboard motor boat a family conveyance instead of chiefly the property of the hunter and fisherman.

With the whole family piling in, both the boats and the motors are becoming bigger all the time. Johnson Motors is bringing out a new 50 horsepower motor. Evinrude Motors also is bringing out a new 50 horsepower motor.

In 1941 the average horsepower rating of all outboard motors was 3.5. The average has climbed to 15.

William Jonas, director of sales and advertising for Johnson Motors, predicts sales will be up 10 to 15 per cent in dollar volume in the sales year just starting.

Howard F. Larson, director of sales for Evinrude, expects an 18 per cent gain in unit sales and 28 per cent increase in dollar volume.

He credits much of the sales increase in the southern tier of states to the gain in purchasing power there since the war, plus more business use of outboard motors by oil, logging and commercial fishing companies.

Jonas adds some other factors in boating's popularity — artificial lakes that are being added year by year, the electric starter and the reduction of noise.

Industry spokesmen say that sales and output of outboards doubled between 1933 and 1936. They expect that next year boat-owners will spend about 1 1/4 billion dollars for boats, motors, and supplies, including boat trailers of which there are now some 750,000 in use.

Larson points out the success of a new marketing device. It combines the auto dealer's trade-in of old cars for new with the department store's law away plan. Boat-owners turn in their old motors at the end of the season and take delivery on their new ones when the ice is out of the lake or river.

The outboard motor's industry's big headache at the moment is the competition with the auto men. This is the season, too, when the new cars come out. It's a rare family these days that can afford both at the same time.

Ohio Valley Improvement Fund Urged

Budget Bureau Gets Recommendation on Flood Control, Water

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal funds for Ohio River navigation, flood control and water supply are essential to keep the Ohio River Valley industrial boom going, the Budget Bureau has been advised.

The Ohio Valley Improvement Assn. has presented arguments in a statement to Budget Director Percival Brundage to support new federal spending of about 120 million dollars, adding:

"The obsolete navigation system of the Ohio River threatens to stifle the huge industrial growth now under way in the Ohio Valley."

The association recommended that Congress be asked for funds as follows:

Continued construction on five replacement structures in the Ohio River — New Cumberland locks and dam, $10,700,000; Greenup locks and dam in Huntington, W. Va., area, $11 million; Markland locks and dam below Cincinnati, $12,600,000; locks and dam at Louisville, $7,900,000; New Richmond locks and dam above Cincinnati, $5 million.

Advance engineering and design of four additional Ohio River replacement structures—Pike Island in Wheeling—Steubenville area, $250,000; replacement of Lock and Dam 48 in Evansville, Ind., area, $150,000; Belleville lock and dam in Parkersburg—Marietta area, $125,000; Opposum Creek locks and dam, downstream from Pike Island, $400,000.

Construction and advance planning on Ohio tributaries—Monongahela River; Hildebrand locks and dams, $2,700,000; Dam 8, $2,300,000; Maxwell locks and dam, $1,300,000; Opekinska lock and dam (advance engineering) $125,000. Cumberland River; Cheatham locks and dam, $950,000; Barkley lock and dam, $11 million.

The association recommended new spending of $46,229,000 on continued construction at the following flood control projects: Bradford, Pa.; Catlettsburg, Ky.; Vincennes, Ind.; Buckhorn and Rough River reservoirs, Ky.; Dillon Reservoir, Ohio; Mansfield Reservoir, Ind.; Sutton Reservoir, W. Va.; Allegheny River Reservoir, Pa.

CAA Woman Executive Keeps Office High Above Clouds

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Blanche Noyes gave up a career behind the footlights 28 years ago to become one of aviation's leading ladies.

Now in her challenging real-life role as chief of the air marking staff of the Civil Aeronautics Administration, she is the only woman federal executive flying government aircraft. Though she spends a lot of her time in the air, flying alone, flight-checking air markers or plotting new skyways, she says she's never lonely.

"It's the only time I'm completely relaxed and happy," she told me, "I wouldn't change jobs for anything. It gets more interesting as time goes on."

Since 1936, when the program started, Mrs. Noyes has directed the placing of some 45,000 air markers (mostly on rooftops) to identify towns and nearby airports for pilots, and many have credited them with saving their lives. Still, Mrs. Noyes says she sees great room for improvement.

"Specifically, I would like to see every town and community of 75,000 to 100,000 in the United States air marked," she said. "CAA is doing everything it can to eliminate accidents. There isn't a cloud that hasn't been turned to cut down flying hazards and improve the airways to make flying completely safe."

She was particularly excited over a new luminous paint developed by a firm working cooperatively on experimental markers. She says it is now being used by the military at a number of bases to put on training aircraft to eliminate air collisions.

Mrs. Noyes, a handsome, fashion-conscious woman with a special yen for hats and jewelry, was taught to fly in exactly 3 hours and 45 minutes by her late husband, Dewey L. Noyes, an air mail pilot. She got her present job through personal endorsement by Amelia Earhart, whom she met in 1929, when they were competitors in the first women's air derby flying from Santa Monica to Cleveland.

She was named "Woman of the Year in Aviation" in 1954 and is a past international president of the 99s Inc., world-wide women's flyers' club. She has held the east-to-west speed record for women and compete against men to be co-winner of the trans-continental Bendix Air Race.

Muskingum College Classes Suspended

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—An outbreak of influenza at Muskingum College here has resulted in suspension of classes, at least until Tuesday.

Although no positive diagnosis has been made, President Howard Evans said the disease apparently is not Asian flu.

Absenteeism at Wednesday's afternoon classes reached 40 per cent of the school's 1,100 students, Evans reported. He said the outbreak apparently started over the weekend.

Evans said all campus events have been postponed but added no decision has been made about the Muskingum—Wittenberg football game here Saturday.

Bucks Picked To Defeat Illini, 14-6

Army To Edge Irish, Michigan To Lose, Midwest Expert Says

By JERRY LISKA
Midwest AP Sports Editor
CHICAGO (AP)—This weekend the Midwest football scene must be more "serious."

After two warmup rounds, our average is .842 and 16-3 and a perfect day, at last Saturday. But now the pitching gets swifter. Here's the way we swing:

Michigan State 13, Michigan 7—A humdinger of a Big Ten showdown which a capacity 101,000 will watch at Michigan Stadium. We'll use the statistical sliderule on this one. Michigan has averaged a net of 3.8 yards per play in defeating Southern California 16-6 and Georgia 26-0. But the Trojans and Yellowjackets combined for exactly the same 3.8 per play yardage against the Wolverines. On the other hand, Michigan State averaged 5.9 per play in spanking Indiana 54-0 and California 19-0, while yielding only 3.1 per play. Besides that, Spartan depth will win out.

Purdue 20, Wisconsin 13—The difference here is the kind of company both teams have been keeping. The sophomore-studded Badgers free-wheeled against Marquette and West Virginia without a test of their defense. The Boiler-makers hammered rivets real good in losing efforts against Notre Dame and Minnesota. Minnesota still is wondering how it beat Purdue, 21-17, after being out-gained 378 yards to 185 and 24 first downs to 6.

Army 14, Notre Dame 13—This Irish team is carrying a shillelagh, but may be weakened by a flu epidemic. Army looked good in defeating Nebraska and Penn State. In full health, the Irish might show some capers they didn't display in defeating Purdue and Indiana.

Minnesota 19, Northwestern 13—The Gophers learned against Purdue that performance must come before reputation. Northwestern will be starting six sophomores and lacks depth to cope with the bulky and well-manned Gophers. Minnesota will be remembering last year's scoreless tie with the surprising Wildcats which kept them from the Rose Bowl.

Ohio State 14, Illinois 6—The Buckeyes broke into the victory column with a 35-7 triumph over Washington. But this may not mean too much. Minnesota clubbed Washington, 46-7, but walked into a buzzsaw before edging Purdue, 21-17. Illinois still is a Big Ten enigma after losing to UCLA 16-6 and trouncing Colgate 40-0. If Tom Haller has really taken hold at quarterback, the Illini may be tough.

Iowa 28, Indiana 6—The defending champion Hawkeyes launch their Big Ten title defense against the league's softest touch. Iowa had to go all stops out to defeat Washington State, 20-13. Even if flu persists, the Hawkeyes should brush aside a foe which has been outscored, 80-0, in two games.

Holy Cross 14, Marquette 7—The Warriors are trying. The Crusaders are getting closer to Marquette's size.

Buckeyes Reminded Of Illini Grid Power

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes have been given a reminder that the University of Illinois can be a football powerhouse. Coach Woody Hayes Wednesday had his boys sit through a motion picture replay of the 1953 OGI-Illini game. Illinois, sparked by J. C. Caroline, that year smothered the Bucks 41-20.

Ohio State meets the Illini in OSU's Big Ten opener Saturday.

Dayton, Manhattan To Open Cage Tourney

NEW YORK (AP)—Defending champion Manhattan College will meet Dayton University Dec. 26 in Madison Square Garden for the opening game of the sixth annual holiday basketball tournament.

Other schools in the tourney are Temple, Pittsburgh, Connecticut, Seattle, California and New York University.

AARON HOMERS; SO DOES BAUER — Hank Aaron led off the seventh inning of the sixth game of the World Series with a home run, giving the Braves a temporary 2-2 tie with the Yanks in Yankee Stadium. He is being welcomed home (left) by the bat boy (right). At the left is Yankee catcher Yogi Berra. In the bottom half of the same inning, Hank Bauer smashed a homer to give the Yanks a 3-2 lead, and a 3-2 victory, forcing the Series into a seventh game. Bauer is being greeted at home (right) by Tony Kubek (No. 34) and the bat boy (right).

BERRA HOMERS; SO DOES TORRE — The sixth game of the World Series was a battle of homers, finally won by the New York Yankees, 3-2, in their own stadium. At the left Yankee catcher Yogi Berra is greeted at home plate by Gil McDougald (left), Enos Slaughter and the bat boy (right) after he homered in the third inning with Slaughter aboard. At the right Frank Torre of the Milwaukee Braves is greeted by the bat boy (right) after he slammed out a four-bagger in the fifth inning.

Yankee Players All Smiles After Wednesday's Contest

NEW YORK (AP)—There were broad smiles on all faces in the New York dressing room after the Yankees squared the World Series at 3-all, but the happiest guy of them all was Bullet Bob Turley, who pitched and won his first victory in the autumn classic.

Turley, a 27-year-old native of Troy, Ill., had just limited the Milwaukee Braves to four hits and won a tight 3-2 verdict. Although

Berra Says 53rd Game Tough as 1st

NEW YORK (AP)—To Yogi Berra, playing in his 53rd World Series game is no different than playing in his first.

"You never get hardened to stuff like this," the New York Yankees' gnome-like catcher said today. "It's still the World Series. You still get excited and get butterflies in your stomach. You know a lot hangs on every play."

"When I broke in I was popeyed with fright and threw the ball all over the place. Now I am a little more sure of myself. But otherwise every game is the same."

Lawrence Peter Berra, born in St. Louis 32 years ago, set a record for playing in the most World Series game Wednesday at Yankee Stadium when he reported for No. 53. He went ahead of such series regulars as Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Phil Rizzuto, who had played in 52.

It was only justice that Yogi's 53rd series game should be one of his best—a home run, double and single—and expert signal-calling for the winning pitcher, Bob Turley, who beat Milwaukee 3-2.

Here Are More News Briefs From Midwest Grid Camps

CHICAGO (AP)—Midwest Football Briefs:

Ohio State—Coach Woody Hayes put the Bucks through a grueling workout and personally supervised the offensive drills. Hayes also had the team work on pass defense saying he expects Illinois to make use of its passing.

Iowa — The flu situation eased up in the Hawkeye camp and the team went through its first scrimmage in 10 days. For the first time in 10 days no new flu cases were reported.

Utah, Duke Stars Hold Leadership

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Winters of Utah State, the total offense leader, and high scorer Wray Carlton of Duke were the only major college football individual leaders holding over from a week ago, the NCAA service bureau reports.

Winters, who is leading in forward passing with 492 yards in three games, is tops in total offense with 515 yards. Bob Stransky of Colorado, second in total offense with 436 yards, leads in rushing with 369 yards. Arizona State's Leon Burton is the rushing runner-up with 363 yards. Carlton scored eight points as Duke defeated Maryland 14-0, running his total to 40, 10 more than for Jerry Mertens of Drake and Idaho's Howard Willis.

Suitcase Simpson Remains Forlorn

NEW YORK (AP)—Probably the most forlorn figure on the New York Yankees as they went into the seventh and final World Series game with the Milwaukee Braves today was first baseman Harry (Suitcase) Simpson who has gone 1 for 12 in the series.

"I'm just over-anxious," Simpson explained. "I've been trying too hard. I guess I've heard some of the booing and I sort of expected it. Billy Martin was a big favorite in this town and when I came here as part of his trade to Kansas City, some of the fans probably resented me. I'll just keep swinging if I get another chance."

third game at Milwaukee last Saturday.

"He pitched a whale of a game against us—just as he did the other day. But our Johnson (Ernie) was pretty good out there too. I think he was great."

Actually the difference was that Bob Buhl, the Milwaukee starter, walked a man ahead of Berra's homer, while the two Milwaukee four-baggers came with the sacks empty.

Baseball Said To Be Game Of Inches

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball is a game of inches.

That's what Hank Bauer said Wednesday when he learned the home run he hit for victory in the sixth World Series game was fair by exactly one inch.

"I knew it was curving," said the ex-Marine. "I was worried that it would curve foul. I didn't know what happened when I saw it bounce back on the field."

It was an hour after the game before Bauer really learned what happened. Jim Thompson, Yankee Stadium superintendent, explained after inspecting the screen on the left field foul line.

The screen was erected in July to help the umpires on that difficult foul line call. It extends 36 inches from the foul pole into fair territory and runs about 45 feet into the air. When the ball hits the screen, the umpire knows it is a fair ball.

"The screen is attached to two cables," said Thompson. "One cable is an inch away from the foul pole. The other is 36 inches out."

The homer kept the Yanks alive in the series and assured Bauer of a place in the record books. It stretched Bauer's consecutive game hitting streak to 13, tying a series record held jointly by Frank Schulte of the 1906-10 Chicago Cubs and Harry Hooper of the 1915-18 Boston Red Sox.

Brennan Says Flu To Hurt Irish 'Ti'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Coach Terry Brennan says his flu-ridden Notre Dame football team is in poor physical shape for Saturday's game with tough Army in Philadelphia.

Six of his regulars and two second-stringers were sidelined by the flu bug Wednesday.

"We are hurt, hurt badly," Brennan said after the squad walked through no-contact drills.

"There is no likelihood that we will be in top shape for Army although all of the men who are down with the flu now probably will make the trip."

Consumer Loan Habits Show Change in U.S.

Reason for Borrowing Varies; Larger Sums Sought, Survey Shows

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — Consumers are borrowing larger sums and for different reasons than a few years back. They borrow for a longer time and delinquencies are rising slightly. On the other hand, there is a trend toward paying off the loans ahead of schedule.

These are findings of small loan companies across the nation. They deal with some 10 million families a year for a total of about five billion dollars.

Their reports jibe with the findings of the Federal Reserve Board on the total volume of personal loans, the kind made by these companies and by other financial firms. The board's figures put personal loans at 74 billion dollars almost one billion above the total a year ago.

The National Consumer Finance Assn. queried top men in 26 of its member companies in 17 states and the District of Columbia on changes in the last few years. All report a shift of emphasis from emergency or remedial borrowing to convenience or better living borrowing.

A typical report is that of a St. Louis loan company. In 1953 medical, dental and hospital bills accounted for 12 per cent of its loans. This year they are only 8 per cent of the total. In 1953 borrowing for necessities, such as food, clothing, fuel and rent, made up 14 per cent of the volume. Now the percentage is 10. But borrowing to buy new furniture and home appliances has gone up from 11 per cent in 1953 to 16 per cent today.

A small loan executive in Phoenix, Ariz., reports an "increased use of consumer loans for buying goods and services to improve living standards or to make life more satisfying and enjoyable. More loans are tied in with the workers' leisure time for travel,

The device will be launched from Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific within a few weeks, the News said.

Redstone Arsenal, site of the Army ballistics missile agency, is at Huntsville, Ala.

Woman Seeks $75,000 For Death of Husband

TOLEDO — A Toledo woman, Mrs. Sophia Brooks, has filed a $75,000 suit in common pleas court here against Cecil Raymond Stark of Fostoria.

Mrs. Brooks said her husband, James W., died as the result of injuries after he was struck by Stark's truck here Oct. 18, 1955.

vacations, do-it-yourself projects and hobbies."

In Portsmouth, Va., an executive reports 40 per cent of the loans are for payments on house lots and home appliances. In Columbus, Ohio, half of the new loans are on merchant recommendation for the purchase of goods and services.

Inflation is credited with raising the amount of the average loan and also for lengthening the period for payment.

A midwest loan agency says that its average loan in 1955 was for $386. Last year it was $437 and this year $452.

In Los Angeles the average for loans rose from $367 in 1954 to $440 this year. A similar trend is reported by companies serving Louisiana, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky.

In some states the contract length has risen from 12 to 18 months and in others from 18 to 24 months. But a trend toward repaying ahead of time is sighted in Chicago, the Pacific Northwest, the Northeast and Florida.

All agree that a slight rise in the delinquency rate has come with inflation, plus loss of overtime pay. But all insist it is not out of line or dangerous.

Gallipolis Jail Slaying Brings Man Death Verdict

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio — Rell Blankenship, 42, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary Jan. 15 for the death of a fellow prisoner at the Gallia County jail here.

A jury of seven men and five women Wednesday night found Blankenship guilty of first degree murder in the fatal shooting Aug. 17 of Loren Borden, 26. Blankenship drew the mandatory death sentence from Common Pleas Judge Robert M. Betz after the jury failed to recommend mercy.

Gallia County Sheriff Oscar Baird said Borden was shot shortly after Blankenship was thwarted in an escape attempt. Blankenship grabbed Baird's pistol, but before he could get away, Baird slammed the cell door shut. It was then that Blankenship fired at Borden, Baird said.

Blankenship never offered an explanation for firing at Borden, the sheriff said.
